Guest Studies
Theology for Refugees
A project in cooperation of Catholic-Theological Faculty and Center of Islamic Theology
Program
The University of Tübingen offers a number of opportunities to people who have fled war or political persecution and are registered as refugees in Germany. We offer German courses and several other ways to get acquainted with the German university system.

Registered refugees may apply (approval is subject to available capacity) to attend courses as a guest student (Gasthörer). This is a good way to get to know the German university system and to prepare for studies in Germany.

Study of Theology
An introduction to Catholic or Islamic Theology for refugees who:
• have gained their religious knowledge or even their first theological qualifications in an Arab context and
• now live in a secular, traditionally Christian-based society and
• aim to study Islamic or Catholic Theology at the University of Tübingen.

Formal Requirements
You can apply for a status of a guest student without having to submit any particular certificates. The application deadline for the current winter term 2015/16 is 15 November 2015. Approval as a guest student is valid for one semester and its free of charge for registered refugees.

Schedule
1. German as a Foreign Language and Intercultural Programs
A good knowledge of German is necessary if you aim to complete a degree program at the University of Tübingen. The German language teaching center “Deutsch als Fremdsprache und Interkulturelle Programme” has a German course specifically for refugees in the current semester. The course will get you off to a good start with the German language, as well as discussing intercultural communication and facts about Germany and providing an introduction to a German university.

2. Extracurricular Lectures for the Refugees (demand-dependent) for the Winter Term 2015/16
• Introduction into the Study of Islamic Theology (in English)
• Introduction into the Study of Catholic Theology (in English)
• Religion in Secular Society (in English)

3. Catholic-Theological Faculty
Guest students can take part at the introductory level courses (lectures, basic courses and colloquia). Dependent of demand individual readers may also offer a colloquia in English as supplement for their regular courses.
