The LEAD Graduate School & Research Network
and the
Hector Research Institute of Education Sciences and Psychology present the 5th annual

Tübingen Summer Series on Personality Psychology
July 10 to July 13, 2017

Monday, July 10, 2017, 16:15
Lex Borghans and Trudie Schils (Maastricht University)
“Personality from a Human Capital Perspective”
(Room 204, Europastr. 6)

Tuesday, July 11, 2017, 10:15
Richard E. Lucas (Michigan State University)
“The Importance of Life Circumstances for Subjective Well-Being”
(Seminarraum 165, Schloss Hohentübingen)

Tuesday, July 11, 2017, 16:15
Jordan P. Davis (University of Southern California)
“Treating Substance Use Disorders for Young Adults with Mindfulness: Influence on Personality, Craving, and Stress and Substance Use”
(Room 204, Europastr. 6)

Wednesday, July 12, 2017, 10:15
Drew Bailey (University of California, Irvine)
“Explanations and Implications of Diminishing Academic Intervention Impacts Across Time”
(Room 204, Europastr. 6)

Thursday, July 13, 2017, 10:15
Alithe L. van den Akker (University of Amsterdam)
“Disrupted Development: Personality Development of Children and Adolescents in Relation to the Parenting they Receive”
(Room 204, Europastr. 6)

Thursday, July 13, 2017, 14:15
Daniel A. Briley (University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign)
“Behavior Genetic Approaches to the Development of Personality, Educationally-Relevant Skills, and Human Agency”
(Room 204, Europastr. 6)

For more information visit www.lead.uni-tuebingen.de/events